1. Introduction

The Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) for Essex's Independent Custody Visiting Scheme (hereafter referred to as 'the scheme') is a scheme where appointed volunteers from the public visit police stations to check on the treatment of detainees and the conditions in which they are held, that their rights and entitlements are being observed and their detention is compliant with the relevant safer detention guidelines. It offers protection and confidentiality to both detainees and the police and reassurance to the community at large.

The scheme introduced by the PCC on 22nd November 2012 replaces that introduced by Essex Police Authority on 1st April 2003 (last revised April 2010), which itself replaced the former custody visiting scheme (previously known as the Lay Visiting Scheme) and is based on the Home Office Code of Practice on Independent Custody Visiting published pursuant to Section 51(6) of the Police Reform Act 2002. The scheme was updated on 1st September 2013 following the issue of the Code of Practice on Independent Custody Visiting by the Home Office dated March 2013. Police services, PCCs and independent custody visitors shall have regard to this code in carrying out their relevant functions.

The scheme is supported by more detailed national standards that expand the relevant procedures and set out established good practice. The national standards should be read in conjunction with this document.

2. Organisation and Infrastructure

The responsibility for organising and overseeing the delivery of the scheme lies with the PCC, in consultation with chief officers. The PCC will ensure that appropriate resources are provided for the scheme.

Overall responsibility for the administration of the scheme is held by the scheme administrator in the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner for Essex (OPCC).

3. Recruitment

The PCC is responsible for recruiting, selecting and appointing visitors and this responsibility is delegated to the scheme administrator. No person will be appointed as an independent custody visitor without an interview taking place. The selection panel must record the reasons for appointment or non-appointment.

Recruitment is based on clear role descriptions and person specifications (see Annex A). It is open, non-discriminatory and well publicised with selection made on the basis of a standard application form at the first stage and if successful, a subsequent interview. All appointments are made on merit and regard is paid to ensure that overall, the visitors are representative of the local community and provide a suitable balance in terms of age, gender and ethnicity. Visitors must be over 18 years of age and resident in the UK for at least 3 years prior to application, living within the PCC's police area.

The PCC seeks to ensure that all visitors are persons whom the public would perceive to be 'independent'. They will also take care to avoid the appointment of a visitor where there could be, or could be perceived to be, a conflict of interest. For example, police officers, police or PCC staff, special constables, justices of the peace, members of police and crime panels and PCCs would all be considered unsuitable as would those recently retired from those roles. All applications must be considered on their merit.

Visitors should be able to make informed judgements and unbiased observations in which the community will have confidence and the police will accept as fair criticism when justified.

Reasonable adjustments will be made to accommodate suitable candidates who have a disability as defined by the Equality Act 2010 including those who do not have English as their first language, but who are able to communicate effectively so as to be understood. All visits with detainees will be carried out in English as will all documentation.

Two references are requested from applicants and a police security check is carried out on applicants before appointments are confirmed.

Where an applicant has convictions for criminal offences or has received a formal caution, warning, or reprimand, or has failed to disclose such a finding, the specific circumstances must be considered when assessing the suitability of the applicant to become a visitor. A previous conviction is not a bar to appointment and although the PCC is responsible for the appointment of visitors, the chief constable should provide advice on the suitability of an applicant. The PCC should be informed by the chief constable of the reasons for recommending that an applicant should not be appointed.

4. Conditions of Service

The PCC provides each visitor with a written memorandum of understanding summarising the agreed responsibilities and legitimate expectations of both parties. The PCC provides visitors with an identity pass as their authority to visit any police station in the force area holding detainees on a regular or temporary basis.

Appointments are made by the PCC and will, subject to a satisfactory review after the first six months probationary period, be for a period of three years with the option of reappointment for a further period at the discretion of the Executive Director and scheme administrator. At the successful conclusion of the probationary period full independent custody visitor status will be granted. Full reassessments of suitability must take place at regular intervals not more than 3 years apart. The key factors for renewing a visitor's appointment for further periods will include their continuing ability and willingness to do the job effectively.

The scheme administrator in consultation with the Executive Director also has power to terminate a visitor's appointment due to misconduct or poor performance. For example, where the visitor abuses their position whilst visiting, does not comply with the requirement to keep any acquired information confidential, or fails to meet the appropriate criteria (see Annex E which sets out the approved policy).

A visitor has the right to appeal against termination of their appointment and the procedure is set out in Annex E.

5. Complaints Procedure

Any complaints against visitors by detainees, police personnel or others will be handled in accordance with the approved procedure set out in Annex E.

Complaints by visitors against detainees or police officers and police staff must be made at the time to the custody officer with regard to the detainees and to the custody officer or duty officer as appropriate, with regard to police officers and police staff. Any complaint will be recorded by the independent custody visitor on the visiting form.

6. Payment

Visitors are appointed on a voluntary basis and as such there is no facility for financial remuneration. However, all reasonable expenses incurred on custody visitor business will be reimbursed by the PCC.

7. Local Group Co-ordinators

Attached at Annex B is a document entitled the "Role of the Local Group Co-ordinator", as agreed by the PCC. The local group co-ordinators are appointed by the Executive Director and scheme administrator and may receive an honorarium, paid in arrears, to reflect their increased responsibilities in helping to administer the scheme.

8. Insurance

The PCC has arranged insurance to protect its visitors while carrying out their duties in respect of any legal liability for injury or damage to property. Visitors are expected to make their own arrangements with their vehicle insurers to ensure they are appropriately covered for volunteer work.

9. Training

Custody visitors need to have sound knowledge and understanding of detainees' rights and police responsibilities. Information and training in this area is provided by the OPCC in consultation with the chief constable and the local independent custody visiting community. The PCC is currently a member of the Independent Custody Visiting Association and therefore has access to their facilities. The PCC will continually evaluate the effectiveness of the training and the extent to which it is achieving its objectives.

There is an additional training package for visitors who visit Terrorism Act 2000 (TACT) detainees. This training will cover an explanation of the legal framework, review process, arrangements for visits, the role of the Independent Reviewer of Terrorism Legislation (IRTL) and how visitors will work with the IRTL in carrying out their functions and the conduct and reporting of visits.

Training for visitors visiting TACT detainees is part of the selection process and successful completion of training is a condition for selection to this role. Visitors must have successfully completed eighteen months of PACE custody visiting before they can be considered for TACT detainee visits. Selection, performance management and de-selection of visitors is the responsibility of the OPCC.

10. Frequency and Coverage of Visits

The PCC will consult with the chief constable regarding the frequency with which visits should be carried out. Visits must be sufficiently regular to support the effectiveness of the system but not so frequent as to unreasonably interfere with the work of the police. The frequency of visits is monitored against expectations and reported to the PCC at regular intervals. The current visiting expectation is shown in Annex C.

Visits must be undertaken by pairs of visitors working together. Visits may not be undertaken by a single visitor in any circumstances. To be effective and uphold the integrity of the scheme, they must be unannounced and must not develop a regular pattern.

11. Working Arrangements

It must be acknowledged that for the scheme to be effective, it is essential that visitors and police staff develop and maintain professional working relationships based on mutual respect and understanding of each other's legitimate roles.

Annex D refers to the visiting procedures at stations.

12. Feedback on Visits

The local group co-ordinator is responsible for drawing together issues and identifying trends emerging from visits in their area and addressing these with relevant police supervisors, with whom there should be regular formal meetings.

The scheme administrator has the facility to raise concerns and issues with a designated senior officer who should be of assistant chief constable rank, with force-wide responsibilities. The scheme administrator also produces regular reports for the PCC summarising the output from independent custody visiting and the way in which concerns have or have not been addressed. These reports will form the basis of an annual report on the scheme submitted to the PCC and will be reflected in the PCC's own annual report.

13. Liaison Meetings

The PCC will ensure that visitors have the opportunity to meet together to discuss their work. Visitors will meet at least once every six months either collectively or as individual groups. Group co-ordinators will meet with the scheme administrator at least twice yearly. The PCC will hold an annual meeting of all visitors under the chairmanship of the scheme administrator.

14. Reviewing Performance

The PCC will assess how effectively the scheme's arrangements are working. Key aspects of that process are reviewing the quality of reports, the frequency with which visits take place and the number of occasions on which detainees refuse to speak to visitors. Any major revisions to the scheme will be agreed with the Executive Director and reported to the PCC.

INDEPENDENT CUSTODY VISITING

Conducting Visits

1. Visits must be undertaken by pairs of independent custody visitors working together. Visits may not be undertaken by a single visitor under any circumstances. Visits must be unannounced and must not develop a regular pattern.

Visiting procedures at stations

2. Visitors must be immediately admitted to the custody area. Delay is only permitted when immediate access may place the visitors in danger. A full explanation must be given to the visitors as to why access is being delayed and that explanation must be recorded by the visitors in their report.
3. Visitors must have access to all parts of the custody area and to associated facilities such as food preparation areas, relevant storage areas and medical rooms. Custody visitors will be permitted access to CCTV cameras to ensure that they are operational. However, it is not part of their role to attend police interviews with detainees.
4. Police staff must be alert to any specific health or safety risks visitors might face and must advise them appropriately at the commencement of the visit. Visitors must also be alert to any actual or potential risks.
5. The custody officer or a member of custody staff must accompany visitors during visits (see 14 below).

Visiting Terrorism Act 2000 (TACT) detainees

6. Whilst Visitors make unannounced visits to custody suites, given the low number of TACT detainees it is highly unlikely that a suspect will be in detention during a spot-check. For this reason the ICV Scheme Administrator will be notified when terrorist arrests take place and where those arrested are being detained. The notification will be made by the custody officer as soon as practicable after the detainee has arrived at the detention suite.
7. The ICV scheme administrator will inform appropriately trained and security cleared visitors that an individual has been arrested under TACT and the detention facility at which they are or will be detained.

Access to detainees

8. Subject to the exceptions referred to in 9 below, visitors must be allowed access to any person detained at the police station. Only visitors who have undergone the appropriate security vetting and training will be admitted to those detained under TACT, irrespective of where they are held. Detainees may only be spoken to with their consent and the escorting officer is responsible for establishing whether they wish to speak to the visitors. However, the process adopted is by self-introduction by the visitor in the presence of the escorting officer.

9. Persons detained by non-Home Office police forces such as the British Transport Police are not covered by these arrangements. However, they may be visited with the consent of the force concerned and the spirit of these guidelines should be applied to any such visits.
10. Juveniles may be spoken to with their own consent.
11. If a detainee is not in a position to give consent, the escorting officer must allow the visit unless any of the exceptions set out in 14 below apply. 12. Sleeping detainees can be woken at the discretion of the escorting officer to seek consent to a visit. However, where this would involve interrupting the continuous period of eight hours rest provided for under PACE, the normal procedure should be not to wake the person but to observe through the cell hatch.
13. Police interviews with detainees should not be interrupted to facilitate visits. However, independent custody visitors may await the completion of the interview if they wish to see the person concerned.
14. The custody officer may limit or deny visitors' access to a specific detainee if authorised by an officer of or above the rank of inspector and where either:
 - after a thorough risk assessment has been carried out the officer reasonably believes that to be necessary for the visitors' safety, or
 - if the officer reasonably believes that such access could interfere with process of justice.
15. There should be no presumption that access should be denied to any particular category of detainee or because a decision has been made that a person should be held incommunicado.
16. Where any of the circumstances referred to in paragraph 14 above apply consideration should be given to allowing the visitors some limited form of access to the detainee, such as speaking to them through the cell hatch.
17. Any decision to deny or limit access must be recorded in the detainee's custody record (together with the relevant authorisation) and by the visitors in their report of the visit.

Discussion with detainees

18. Discussions between detainees and visitors must wherever practical, take place in sight but out of the hearing of the escorting officer. Where it is not possible the police officer or staff member should not take part in the conversation.

19. Discussions must focus on checking whether detainees have been offered their rights and entitlements under PACE, on their health and wellbeing and ensuring the relevant safer detention guidelines are being complied with.
20. Visitors must remain impartial and must not seek to involve themselves in any way in the process of investigation. If a detainee seeks to make admissions or otherwise discuss an alleged offence, the visitor must tell them that the relevant contents of the visit will be made known to the custody officer and may be disclosed in legal proceedings.
21. If a visitor realises they know or are known by a detainee, they must declare this and consider whether to withdraw from the visit.
22. Visitors must not pass messages to or from detainees or offer to perform other tasks on their behalf. If they are asked to do so they must immediately inform the custody officer and record it on the custody visiting form.
23. If a detainee indicates they may harm themselves or any other person, this must immediately be brought to the attention of custody staff.
24. Subject to obtaining the detainee's consent to examine their custody record, the visitors should check its contents against what they have been told by the detainee. Visitors may also have access to other relevant documentation that relates to a detainee e.g. risk assessment. Access to all such information must be treated as confidential. But see paragraph 25 below.
25. If a detainee is for any reason incapable of deciding whether to allow access to their custody record, the presumption must be in favour of allowing the visitors to examine it.

Audio and video recording of TACT interviews

26. Visitors who visit TACT detainees may request that they are given access to audio or video recordings of interviews. Visitors may only request access to the whole or part of the audio or video recording of the interview that has been conducted during the period of detention at the request of the detainee or where the visitors have particular concerns about the conduct of the interview (the consent of the detainee is still required).
27. Such a request will only be in order to ensure the detainee has been offered their rights and entitlements under TACT; that their health and wellbeing has been ensured and the relevant statutory code of practice has been followed.
26. Given the interests of the detainee will be protected by their legal representative and if relevant, an appropriate adult during the interview, the ICV will not routinely need to access audio or video recordings of TACT interviews. Should the ICV continue to have concerns after viewing the recording, they should take it this up as soon as possible with the custody officer in order to seek a resolution and follow the complaints procedure set out in these arrangements.

27. Access to the whole or part of the recording of an interview may only be denied if it appears to an officer of or above the rank of inspector that there are grounds for denying access at the time it is requested and procedural arrangements in relation to the denial of access to such recordings are complied with.
28. These are that the officer reasonable believes that it is not practicable to provide access at the time it is requested or the officer reasonable believes that such access could interfere with the process of justice. In such cases an explanation must be given to the visitors and recorded on the custody record and the visit report form.
29. Visitors may not be permitted to watch or attend live interviews of terrorist suspects.
30. Visitor access to recordings of interviews must always be subject to the consent of the detainee. Consent will need to be obtained at each separate visit.

Medical issues

31. Independent custody visitors have no right to see the detainee's medical records, even where these are attached to the custody record. However, key points relevant to medical treatment should be recorded in the custody record itself.

Dealing with issues and complaints

32. Where a detainee makes a complaint or raises an issue about their general treatment or conditions, visitors must subject to the detainee's consent, take this up as soon as possible with police staff in order to seek a resolution. The same applies to similar issues identified by visitors in the course of their attendance.
33. If a detainee makes a complaint of misconduct by a specific police officer, they must be advised to address it to the duty officer in charge of the police station.

Effective working relationships

34. For the scheme to be effective, it is essential that visitors and police staff develop and maintain professional and working relationships based on mutual respect and understanding of each others legitimate roles.

Reporting on a visit

28. At the end of each visit and while they are still at the police station, visitors must complete a report of their findings to include conditions and facilities, rights and entitlements and health and well being, using the standard report form. One copy of the report must remain at the station for the attention of the officer-in-charge of Custody Command. Copies go to Police Headquarters (Criminal Justice Department) and to the PCC scheme administrator.
29. Report forms must include an undertaking not to reveal the names of persons visited or other confidential information obtained in the course of a visit.³⁷

Reports on visits to TACT detainees should be submitted to the Independent Reviewer of Terrorism Legislation and to the PCC for both the police station where the suspect was held and also the police area in which the arrest was made. Co-ordination of reports will be carried out via the PCC and ICV scheme administrator.

High Security Visits

30. Special arrangements exist in respect of visits to detainees requiring higher levels of security and restricted access whilst in custody. These will apply where there is a likelihood of the detention period exceeding forty eight hours. Arrangements will be made via the Force Custody Command. Visitors undertaking these visits will be subject to increased vetting procedures.

Special Visits

31. There may be occasions when a special visit is justified in agreement with the police. For example, when there is particular tension with the local community about the treatment or well-being of someone in detention. Local groups should be ready to consider and respond to such requests from the police.
32. Where there has been a death in police custody, the PCC must be informed as soon as possible. Consideration will then need to be given to whether a visit would be helpful in terms of informing and reassuring the local community. If it is agreed that a visit should be made, it should be on the basis of a clear understanding as to how that feedback to the community will be achieved. Any visit following a death in police custody or some other major incident should not be allowed to interfere with any relevant investigation that may be taking place. There may be circumstances in which the senior investigating officer dealing with such an incident needs to refuse or restrict access to particular areas.

Other Possible Roles for Visitors

33. Independent Custody Visitors may also act as appropriate adults. However, individuals must not switch between those roles during the course of a visit to the same police station and must declare if they have previously carried out either role with the same detainee.
34. Visitors may also act as lay observers appointed under the Criminal Justice Act 1991 to inspect the conditions under which prisoners are transported and held.

POLICY AND CRIME COMMISSIONER FOR ESSEX

INDEPENDENT CUSTODY VISITING SCHEME

Policy for termination of appointment, misconduct and appeal procedure

(Approved at November 2012)

1. Termination of appointment of Independent Custody Visitors (Visitors)

Although the work is entirely voluntary, the Police and Crime Commissioner (PCC) has the right to terminate the appointment of any independent custody visitor whose conduct is not felt to be of the required standard. In the event of misconduct the Executive Director will consider whether it is appropriate to terminate the appointment of the relevant visitor. Misconduct will encompass matters such as misuse of the identity card, conviction of a criminal offence, abusing ones position as a visitor, for example, by flouting the PCC guidelines and Codes of Practice covering the conduct of visitors during visits.

Visitors must notify the PCC if they are arrested, cautioned, charged or summonsed with a criminal offence, or involved in a crime or incident solved by way of neighbourhood resolution. In the case of any offences committed within the Essex Police area, Essex Police will upon request, notify details of the offence to the scheme administrator. In such circumstances, the Executive Director will suspend the appointment of that visitor until the outcome of any criminal proceedings is known. If the visitor is subsequently found to be not guilty, they may be reinstated. In other cases the Executive Director will review the appointment of the visitor with regard to the nature of the offence.

Where a visitor:

- has not made any visits within a six month period, or
- fails to meet their rostered custody visits during the year, or
- fails to attend either a training session, group meeting, or the annual visitors' meeting in a twelve month period, and no good reason for this has been notified to the scheme administrator or group co-ordinator, the scheme administrator may notify the individual in writing that their appointment is to be referred to the Executive Director for consideration.

2. Complaints of misconduct by an Independent Custody Visitor

The co-ordinator will inform the scheme administrator of all complaints or issues of concern regarding a visitor. The scheme administrator will after consideration and discussion with the co-ordinator decide if the complaint should be dealt with locally by the co-ordinator. In these cases the co-ordinator will arrange to discuss the complaint or issue with the individual concerned. The scheme administrator will be informed by the co-ordinator of the outcome of these discussions.

If a visitor is unhappy with the outcome of the discussion with the co-ordinator they must contact the scheme administrator who will decide how best to deal with the situation.

The scheme administrator will inform the co-ordinator, where appropriate, of any complaints or issues of concern regarding a visitor in their group.

Complaints of a more serious nature or repeated complaints must be made in writing to the Executive Director. The Executive Director will decide how best to deal with these complaints.

Where the scheme administrator receives a written complaint of misconduct, they will consider with the Executive Director whether the visitor's appointment will be suspended until such time as the complaint is resolved.

Should it be considered appropriate to refer the complaint to the Executive Director for consideration, the visitor will be notified in writing.

3. Referral of Appointments to the Executive Director

When appointments are referred to the Executive Director for consideration, the individual visitor will be informed of the date and venue of the referral and invited to submit either a written statement, or to attend the Executive Director's meeting at which their appointment is to be considered. A visitor may if preferred have a representative attend on their behalf. In this case the individual visitor must inform the scheme administrator of the name of the person attending on their behalf.

The decision of the Executive Director will be notified to the visitor in writing within seven days of the meeting. If appropriate the suspension of their appointment will be cancelled.

In certain circumstances it may be necessary for the Executive Director to identify a minimum of three Managers who have taken no part in the referral discussions or been present when these considerations took place, to consider the visitor's appointment in the event of an appeal.

4. Appeal Process

Where a visitor's appointment is terminated, the individual will have the right to appeal. The intention to appeal must be notified to the scheme administrator in writing, within 21 days following the notification of termination of appointment.

The appeal panel will consist of the PCC and 2 managers not involved in the referral process nominated by the Executive Director. The PCC will chair the panel.

The appeal panel will meet to consider the termination of appointment within 30 days following the notification of appeal. The visitor will be notified in writing of the date and venue of the appeal, not less than seven working days prior to the appeal, and will be invited to submit a written statement or attend the appeal in person. A visitor may if preferred, have a representative attend the appeal on their behalf. In this case the visitor must inform the scheme administrator of the name of their representative at least seven days prior to the appeal.

The decision of the appeal panel will be notified in writing to the visitor within seven working days of the appeal hearing.

The decision of the appeal panel will be final. The PCC will enter into no further discussions or correspondence concerning the termination of appointment.
