3. Why does the organisation process personal data?

- 3.1 We need to process data to enter into an employment contract with you and to meet our obligations under your employment contract; to provide you with access to business services required to support you in your role, and to manage our human resources processes. For example, we need to process your data to provide you with an employment contract; to pay you in accordance with your employment contract and to administer benefit, pension and insurance entitlements.
- 3.2 In some cases, we need to process your data to ensure that we are complying with our legal obligations. For example, we are required to check an employee's entitlement to work in the UK, to deduct tax, to comply with health and safety laws, to enable employees to take periods of leave to which they are entitled, and to consult with employee representatives if redundancies are proposed or a business transfer is to take place. It is also necessary to carry out criminal records checks and vetting to the requisite level to ensure that individuals are permitted to undertake the role in question.
- 3.3 In other cases, we have a legitimate interest in processing personal data before, during and after the end of the employment relationship. Processing employee data allows us to:
- run recruitment, organisational change and promotion processes;
 - maintain accurate and up-to-date employment records and contact details (including details of who to contact in the event of an emergency) and records of an employee's contractual and statutory rights;
 - operate and keep a record of disciplinary and grievance processes, to ensure acceptable conduct within the workplace;
 - conduct pay and grading reviews;

- operate and keep a record of employee performance and related processes, to plan for career development, and for succession planning and workforce management purposes;
 - obtain occupational health advice, to ensure that it complies with duties in relation to individuals with disabilities; to meet our obligations under health and safety law, and to ensure that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
 - operate and keep a record of various types of leave (including maternity, paternity, adoption, parental and shared parental leave) to allow effective workforce management; to ensure that we comply with duties in relation to leave entitlement, and to ensure that employees are receiving the pay or other benefits to which they are entitled;
 - assess compliance with corporate policies and procedures and ensure the security of premises, IT systems and employees;
 - ensure effective general HR and business administration;
 - conduct employee engagement surveys;
 - provide references on request for current or former employees;
 - deal with any employer / employee related disputes, including responding to and defending against legal claims; and
 - maintain and promote equality, diversity and inclusion in the workplace.
- 3.4 Information about trade union membership is processed to allow us to operate staff deductions for union subscriptions and to ensure staff are involved appropriately in collective bargaining and appropriately supported through any HR process during their employment.
- 3.5 Where we process other special categories of personal data, such as information about ethnic origin, sexual orientation, health or religion or belief, this is done for the purposes of equal opportunities monitoring as permitted by the Data Protection Act 2018. You can ask us to stop processing this data at any time.
- 3.6 When appropriate, we will provide an updated privacy notice to cover any additional processing activities not mentioned elsewhere in this document.

4. The legal basis for processing

- 4.1 The PFCC will only process data relating to employees in order to fulfil its duties as an employer, or where it has a legal obligation to process personal data either in accordance with a statute or court order, or in order to prevent or detect misconduct.
- 4.2 Most of the processing of personal data the PFCC undertakes as an employer (including in relation to information about employees' criminal convictions and offences) relies on article 6 of the UK GDPR. Article 6(1)(b) relates to the processing necessary for the performance of a contract; article 6(1)(c) relates to the PFCC's legal obligations as an employer; article 6(1)(d) relates to the protection of your vital interests and those of other people; article 6(1)(e) relates to the performance of our public tasks, and article 6(1)(f) refers to the purposes of our legitimate interest.
- 4.3 For processing special category data, the PFCC relies on the provisions under article 9 (obligations in the field of employment, or to establish, exercise or defend legal claims) or article 89 (where there is substantial public interest or for statistical purposes) of the UK GDPR.

- 4.4 In addition, the PFCC relies on the processing conditions set out within Schedule 1, Part 1, paragraph 1 and Schedule 1, Part 1, paragraph 2(2)(a) and (b) of the Data Protection Act 2018. These relate to the processing of special category data for employment purposes, preventative or occupational medicine and the assessment of your working capacity as an employee.

5. Who has access to your data?

- 5.1 Your information will be shared with members of Essex and Kent Police's HR and recruitment team (including payroll), your line manager, and Essex and Kent Police IT staff if access to the data is necessary for performance of their roles.
- 5.2 Your data may also be shared with employee representatives in the context of collective consultation on a redundancy or organisational change. This would be limited to the information needed for the purposes of consultation, such as your name, contact details, role and length of service.
- 5.3 We share your data with third parties in order to obtain pre-employment references from other employers, obtain employment background checks from third party providers and obtain necessary criminal records checks from Essex Police's Vetting Department. In those circumstances the data will be subject to confidentiality arrangements.
- 5.4 We also share your data with third parties, such as the shared Kent and Essex Police support services, which process data on the Commissioner's behalf in connection with payroll, the provision of benefits and the provision of occupational health services. Kent and Essex Police also share your information with Essex County Council in relation to the administration of the Local Government Pension Scheme.
- 5.5 If we consider that you are a risk to others, we may share misconduct or discipline records with a new employer, the Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS), other police forces or government agencies.
- 5.6 We will also disclose your personal data to other bodies and individuals when required to do so by or under any act of legislation, by any rule of law, or under any court order. This may include disclosures to the Child Support Agency, the National Fraud Initiative, the Home Office or the Courts.
- 5.7 We will also share your data with your consent, for example if you are seeking a reference from us or transferring to another employer.
- 5.8 We will not transfer your data to countries outside the European Economic Area (EEA) unless required to do so by law.
- 5.9 We will always record our reasons for sharing and who we have shared your personal data with. You can lodge an objection to this by contacting the Data Protection Officer, whose contact details are provided above.

6. How do we protect your data?

- 6.1 We will ensure that the personal data we collect about you is kept to the minimum that is necessary for the processing purpose.

- 6.2 We take the security of your data seriously. We have internal policies and controls in place to safeguard against your data being lost, accidentally destroyed, misused or disclosed, or accessed except by employees in the performance of their duties.
- 6.3 Information held by Kent and Essex Police must demonstrate compliance with the standards set by the National Policing Information Risk Management Team (NPIRMT), the National Police Chiefs Council's (NPCC's) Community Security Policy (CSP) and relevant parts of the ISO2700I Information Security Standard, regardless of where it comes from. Electronic and digital security of systems which use or manage police information adhere to the Kent and Essex Police Baseline Security Requirement.
- 6.4 Technical safeguards are enforced within the IT infrastructure through tools and techniques including firewalls, data encryption, end point detection and response solutions, protective monitoring, segregation of data and role based authorised system access. Physical access controls ensure authorised and appropriate access to buildings and files.
- 6.5 We may use anonymised or pseudonymised data for statistical or research purposes. When using anonymised data, all identifying characteristics such as your name and age will be taken out. When using pseudonymised data, all such identifying characteristics will be taken out and an identifying number used instead.
- 6.6 Where we engage third parties to process personal data on our behalf, such as the Kent and Essex Police HR department, they do so on the basis of written instructions, are under a duty of confidentiality and are obliged to implement appropriate technical and organisational measures to ensure the security of data. These requirements are set out in a data processor agreement.

7. For how long do we keep your data?

- 7.1 We will hold your personal data in accordance with the Disposal and Retention Schedule for Essex Police Records and any relevant legal requirements.

8. Your rights

- 8.1 As a data subject, you have a number of rights:
 - The right to be informed – You have the right to be informed about the collection and use of your personal data. You must be informed of the purpose for processing your personal data; retention periods for that data and who it will be shared with. This information must be provided at the time at which personal data is collected. This Employee Privacy Notice is one of the key means through which the PFCC ensures this right is complied with. Further details can be found under articles 13 and 14 of the UK GDPR.
 - The right of access – You have the right to request access to and obtain a copy of your personal data (also known as a subject access request). If you make a formal request for your information (Subject Access Request), we will respond to acknowledge your request and may require you to prove your identity to us. We may also ask you for information about any specific information you are seeking to help us make sure we meet your request fully and speed up the process.

If you agree, we will try to deal with your request informally, for example by providing you with the specific information you need over the telephone. We will provide you with the information that you are entitled to as soon as possible and without unreasonable delay and at the latest within one month of your identity being verified by us.

In exceptional cases we may extend the period of compliance by a further two months if the request(s) are complex or numerous. If this is the case, we will inform you within one month of the receipt of the request and explain why the extension is necessary. In most circumstances there will be no charge for this right of this access;

- The right to rectification – You have the right to apply to us to change incorrect data or to complete incomplete data. Your data can be corrected when we have recorded any of your personal data incorrectly; your details have changed; we were provided with incorrect data from someone or somewhere else, or we have recorded information against your name that refers to someone else. Your data cannot be changed when an investigation is live and any corrections will compromise this; where it relates to a malicious or false allegation; if an individual has said something about you that you disagree with, or you have deliberately provided false details. Further information on this right can be found under section 46 of the Data Protection Act 2018 and under Article 16 of the UK GDPR;
 - The right to erasure (“the right to be forgotten”) – You have the right to request that your personal data is deleted. Further details can be found under section 47 of the Data Protection Act 2018 and under article 17 of the UK GDPR;
 - The right to restriction – You have the right to request restriction or suppression of your personal data. When processing is restricted, personal data is stored but cannot be used. Further details about this right can be found under section 47 of the Data Protection Act 2018 and under article 18 of the UK GDPR;
 - The right to data portability – You have the right to request and reuse the personal data you provide to us for your own purposes across different services. This will allow data to be moved, copied or transferred from one IT environment to another in a safe and secure way without affecting its usability. Data will be provided in a format that is structured, commonly used and machine readable. Further information about this right can be found under Article 20 of the UK GDPR;
 - The right to object to the processing of your data in certain circumstances set out in article 21 of the UK GDPR; and
 - The right to apply not to be subject to automated decision making, based on automated processing, if it produces an adverse legal effect or otherwise significantly affects you. Further information about this right can be found under section 49 of the Data Protection Act 2018 and article 22 of the UK GDPR.
- 8.2 The rights of data subjects under the UK GDPR above are not absolute, and in certain situations requests cannot be granted. For example, the right to restrict data processing does not apply when data is processed for the purposes of the prevention, investigation, detection or prosecution of criminal offences. The same applies to the processing of personal data in the prevention of threats to public security.
- 8.3 If you would like to exercise any of these rights or make a complaint, please contact the Data Protection Officer (DPO), at Kelvedon Park, London Road, Rivenhall, Witham, Essex, CM8 3HB or by emailing Suzanne.humphreys@essex.police.uk
- 8.4 You can make a subject access request by completing a form which can be accessed on our website. There is no legislative requirement to complete the form but doing so will ensure that we have all the details needed to fulfil your request, including the required identification validation. This will help to ensure that your request is dealt with as quickly as possible.

- 8.5 If after contacting the DPO, you believe that we have not complied with your data protection rights, you can complain to the Information Commissioner:

Email: icocasework@ico.org.uk

Telephone: 0303 123 1113

Post: Information Commissioner's Office
Wycliffe House, Water Lane
Wilmslow, Cheshire
SK9 5AF

9. What if you do not provide personal data that is requested of you?

- 9.1 You have some obligations under your employment contract to provide us with certain data. In particular, you are required to report absences from work and may be required to provide information about disciplinary or other matters under the implied duty of good faith. You may also have to provide us with data in order to exercise your statutory rights, such as in relation to statutory leave entitlements. Failing to provide the data may mean that you are unable to exercise your statutory rights.
- 9.2 Certain information, such as contact details, your right to work in the UK and payment details, have to be provided to enable us to enter a contract of employment with you. If you do not provide such information, this will hinder our ability to administer the rights and obligations arising as a result of the employment relationship efficiently.
